Wants Diamond Head On A Lease For Bug Proof Farm

J. L. Coeper, who has applied to the Territorial Government for the lease of Diamond Head, has a well-considered scheme in mind to make the great promontory a source of revenue. He came from Rhineland and has never looked at Diamond Head without seeing in his mind the grey walls of a great castle rising above the serrated rim of the extinct fumarole. He has even dreamed of building a feudal castle of stone and mortar above the old volcanic precipice. His abandonment of the dream of the lordly castle did not end his castle-building; and, since castles are erected in the air with easy stunts, it was no difficult matter for Mr. Coeper to build one as high up as the top of Diamond Head.

Coeper's castle was one of enterprise. He is a good judge of soils and has examined with care the storm-trodden turf in the basin of the extinct crater. He made up his mind that the choicest products of orchard, vineyard and truck patch could be raised in abundance in the Diamond Head crater. Mr. Coeper was especially smitten with the idea of cultivating a vineyard of such grapes as grow not this side of the home of his boyhood. And watermelons—these would grow with impunity, for the crater is bug-proof and beetle-free. No worm has ever been known to creep up its calcined walls and no moth or winged insect ever rises above the rim of the crater except to be hurled far out to sea by the winds which blow from Kaimuki. A vegetable garden in Diamond Head crater would therefore be insured for all time against pests and no entomologist would be required on the payroll.

Mr. Coeper, who has a practical eye, has surveyed the Diamond Head steeps and figures that a pack trail to the summit would cost less than $1000. Up this pack trail would go in the seeds and cuttings to start the isolated farm. Down the trail would come long lines of burros, laden with the fruitage of foresight and toil, to the Honolulu market.

The application for a lease of Diamond Head has not been acted on yet, but has been pigeonholed to await its turn with other important matters in the Land Office.

JUTEOPOLIS SPOKEN.

Cable news has been received here that the British vessel Juteopolis, which for some weeks has been posted as overdue on the voyage from New York to Penang, has been spoken. The Juteopolis called at this port last year. Some waterfronters in this port placed some money on the reinsurance speculation on the Juteopolis.

Iaukea Says He Will Run For Congress In Hawaii Campaign

San Francisco, June 29.—Clad in holiday garb, and with the prospect of a pleasant outing depicted on their smiling faces, the delegates from California and Hawaii to the Democratic National Convention left for St. Louis by special train yesterday morning.

It was a joyous gathering of ladies and gentlemen. Many of the delegates took members of their family with them, while others had their women folk cross the bay and bid them good-bye at the Oakland mole. It was a typical California morning, with blue sky overhead, a fresh breeze from the ocean and just enough suggestion of fog in the atmosphere to make things cool and pleasant. Delegates began to gather at the ferries fully an hour before the trip across the bay was made. Delegate-at-Large M. F. Tarpey, who is in charge of the delegation, arrived there almost as soon as the band and kept himself busy hurrying hither and thither, directing things. The band entered into the spirit of the occasion and discoursed patriotic music in lively fashion.

HOW DOYLE IS EARNING HIS PAY

Prepares Prosecutions For the Attorney General.

ANDREWS' NEW SCHEME TO EXPEDITE BUSINESS

NEXT TERM'S CRIMINAL WORK SIMPLIFIED — DEPUTIES RELIEVED OF GATHERING EVIDENCE.

Attorney General Lorrin Andrews has instituted a new scheme in the handling of business in his department, a scheme calculated to simplify and hasten the preparation of criminal cases for trial.

Chester Doyle, until recently Japanese interpreter, in the Circuit Court, discontinuing that work when the new appropriations went into effect and cut out all interpreters save one, is now given charge, by the Attorney General, of this special work. It becomes Doyle's business to prepare all matters of evidence in criminal prosecutions so that, upon any case being called, the prosecution is thoroughly prepared to proceed. Heretofore some one of the deputies of the department has had to get busy on the outside, perfecting evidence, locating and making sure of witnesses, ascertaining the nature of testimony to be given and studying exhibits connected with the crime alleged. This has been often a matter of great inconvenience to the department, for while the office force was supposed to be working on the law of the case or waiting on a Grand Jury, or otherwise handling routine affairs, it would often find it necessary to perform work necessary to the prosecution more directly concerning the police end of the investigation but which the police had not the time, says the Attorney General, to look after.

Doyle will practically be the link between the police and Attorney General's departments. The position which he now occupies is not provided for by any appropriation; he will be paid out of the general expense funds.

It is expected that the criminal work of the September term of court will be greatly assisted by the new system.

MRS. MCARTHUR HURT

A Rapid Transit car this forenoon collided with a carriage, in which were Mrs. McArthur and another lady, on the corner of Wilder avenue and Kewalo street. The rig was damaged and both ladies thrown into the street. Mrs. McArthur was rendered unconscious while the other lady was considerably shaken up. They were taken into a neighboring house where their injuries were attended to.

I reported that Palmer Woods had decided that he did not want the job of Democratic National Committeeman for Hawaii, but before his determination had been made known at St. Louis he had been chosen.

PARKER MINOR'S FRIENDS DEMUR

Jurisdiction of First Circuit Court Is Contested.

WHAT IS LOW'S POSITION AND WHERE LIVES THELMA?

PETITION TO SELL HAMAKUA LAND AWAITS TOMORROW FOR ARGUMENT — BEFORE GEAR.

Argument was set for today before Judge Gear on petition for license to sell real estate in the Parker ranch controversy but was continued until tomorrow morning.

This morning two demurrers to the petition were filed. Petition is made by J. S. Low, through Attorneys J. A. Magoon and J. Lightfoot, as next friend of the minor, Annie Thelma K. Parker, for license to sell real estate of the minor, alleging: That a portion of the land of Paauhau is leased to the Paauhau Plantation Company at $1,200 per year for a term of which seven years remains; that deponent believes that about 1500 acres can be cultivated in cane; that the plantation desires to purchase the land under lease to it, that the guardian refuses to sell the land for $124,000; that the Paauhau plantation wants to add these lands to its other lands for cultivation in cane and that it desires to assist and encourage the construction of a ditch leading the waters of the Waipio valley through the district of Hamakua so that its lands can be irrigated; that a company has been formed under the name of the Hamakua Ditch Company, for this purpose, provided it can get a right of way over the leased land from the minor; that without the right of way the enterprise will be abandoned; that the plantation is willing to give the right of way but that the minor's guardian, A. W. Carter, refuses to entertain the proposition; that petitioner (Continued on Page 5.)

PHILIPPINE COMMISSIONERS WELL PLEASED WITH JACK

ACTING GOVERNOR SAYS ALL THE CREDIT RESTS WITH MERCANTILE BODIES WHO ENTERTAINED.

Hawaii is establishing a reputation for itself, through its public men, for politeness and her fame is being spread abroad, probably largely through the multitudes from all the corners of the world's fair at St. Louis, by the delegation of honorary Philippine commissioners to the exposition who passed this way and journeyed hence to the Coast in the steamship which also carried Governor Carter as a delegate of Hawaii to the National Republican Convention.

The Philippine Commissioners were entertained here during their short stay and Secretary Atkinson took an active part in making their stop over pleasant, being voted a "very good fellow" by the "little brown brothers" from the south.

In today's mail the Acting Governor received the following from Secretary of War W. H. Taft, who had requested that the Philippine Commissioners be given an appropriate reception at Honolulu:

War Department, Washington, D. C., June 29, 1904.
Honorable A. L. C. Atkinson, Acting Governor of Hawaii, Honolulu, Hawaii.

[Associated Press Special Cable.] ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 7.—The Democratic Convention has admitted the delegates from Porto Rico to seats on the floor, but refused representation for the Philippines.

Mon. Champ Clark has been named as the permanent chairman of the convention. Features of today's session were the splendid ovations given W. J. Bryan and Judge Parker.

Mr. Bryan presented a minority report for the Committee on Credentials bearing on the Illinois case, supporting the Harrison-Hearst fight.

The party platform has not been completed today, but will probably be presented tomorrow when nominations will be made.

MADE DANGEROUS RAID

Detective Arthur McDuffie came near losing his life, or at all events being badly injured, while he was on a gambling raid last night. As it was, he only escaped by a lucky chance.

McDuffie and Detective Dan Renner were trying to gain entrance to a Chinese gambling den on Smith street. All the entrances from the street and from the back yard were strongly barred and guarded. The detectives realized that should they attempt to break into the house in this way an alarm would reach the festive Chinese and they would get their gambling impediments and other evidence out of sight before they could be reached.

The officers then hit on a novel and bold plan. They decided that as they could not get into the house from below they would try to do so from above. Accordingly they went to a house in the vicinity and got out on its roof. From this place the daring officers began a perilous climb over the housetops to the house which they wanted to enter.

The night was very dark and the two men could hardly see at all in front of them. The roofs were very slippery, having been wetted by a shower, and the climbing was very difficult. The officers used great caution but with little avail. Suddenly McDuffie slipped and began to slide down the slippery incline of the roof. In vain did he try to gain a hold on the smooth surface. He could not stop and slid with increasing speed down towards the edge of the roof. He had almost given up all hope of escaping when he was rescued by a fellow officer. The next moment, when his feet caught in the gutter, pipe which ran along the edge of the roof, McDuffie's fall was stopped right at the very edge, and slowly and carefully he made his way ahead towards the house where the game was in progress.

FISHERMAN DROWNS NEAR THE HARBOR

Yamada Tatsugoro, a Japanese fisherman living on King street by the River street bridge, was drowned close to the entrance of the harbor this morning at about 8 o'clock.

Tatsugoro left the city last evening, as was his custom, and went out in his small sampan, alone, to fish. He spent the night fishing close to Diamond Head and this morning started back for town with his catch. He was quite close to the harbor entrance when disaster overtook him.

In some way, which is not explained, Tatsugoro's sampan got into the breakers on the Walkiki side of the harbor. His small craft was speedily capsized in the tumultuous surf and his occupant was swept away from it. Men in other sampans which were in the vicinity, saw the disaster and hurried to the rescue of their unfortunate comrade. However, they came too late. When they arrived on the spot Tatsugoro was no longer to be seen. The fishermen searched for his body but failed to find it. They are of the opinion that Tatsugoro was snapped up by a shark. The sampan was rescued and towed back to Honolulu.
